

Instructions on Getting Connected

Step 1: To connect to a wireless network, click the Wi-Fi icon on your device. You should now see a list of available networks.

Step 2: To connect to a network, select your network name. If it's a secure network and it's the first time you've used it, you'll need to enter the password provided by the meeting organizer. If you'll be using the same connection regularly, you can check the box to connect automatically in the future.

Step 3: The first time you connect to a network, you'll be asked to choose whether it's a home, work or public network. Select "public network" for all Meydenbauer Center networks.

- Warning: Be very careful if you connect to unsecure wireless networks such as Wi-Fi 'hotspots' in public places. While on them, it's important not to use websites that require you to enter personal or financial details as other users of the network could gain access to these details.

Having Trouble Getting Connected?

Try these troubleshooting methods:

1. Make sure your wireless radio is on. Most laptops have a switch or function key that can turn the wireless radio on or off. Enable the switch and check for wireless connections.
2. Make sure you are connected to the proper network. There are often several different events in house with their own wireless networks. Make sure you are connecting to the network specifically designated for your event.
3. Double check the password. All Meydenbauer Center Wi-Fi networks are secured and require a password or credit card authorization before you can connect to the network. Please note that passwords are case sensitive.
4. Ensure you only have one device connected. Please note that your credit card authorization is tied to the device you made the purchase from and cannot be transferred to other devices.
